History of the Ohio Fair Mangers Association

Alfred Putnam Sandals was Ohio's eleventh Secretary of Agriculture. The Ohio State Fair helped organize the Ohio Fair Managers' Association (OFMA) around 1922 and Myers Cooper was the First President of the Ohio Fair Managers. During the early years, the OFMA's emphasis was largely on exhibitions of education and agriculture. Harness racing in Ohio began its growth in the late 1930s and after World War II the Ohio Harness industry grew rapidly and in the late 1950s the Ohio Fairs Fund was developed and approved by legislature to establish funding for racing and fairs.

Myers Cooper

The first convention took place in 1925 with convention programming expanding over two days with 12-15 workshops with several hundred in attendance, now fast forward to current day with the convention being four days, over 130 workshops, roundtables, and meetings with the attendance of over 3,500. The program ideas are generated from fellow fairs that demonstrate outstanding examples of how to enhance the experience we are all trying to achieve and have the fair goer experience. These programs are meant to help fair boards in attendance of the conference take back new and fresh ideas or give key tips to enhancing ideas already in place.

The Junior Fair participation which now averages 1,400 has grown over the years and educational programming is designed with the assistance of The Ohio State University Extension staff of specialists.

Over the years as the attendance continued to grow, it was in 1985, Executive Secretary Mark List introduced the tradeshow to the convention. It began in the Franklin Rooms growing to Union Rooms then finally to old Battelle Hall. In Battelle Hall there were game and food trailer manufacturers, an amusement ride, band performance stage trailer, and vendors selling out of their trailers along with tradeshow spaces. With renovations to Battelle Hall, the tradeshow was moved to the Franklin and Delaware Ballrooms and the hallways of the Hyatt meeting space. Mark started with roughly 30 spaces and has now grown into 165 spaces and the largest state association of fairs marketplace of tradeshow in the nation.

The conventions early on featured a grand ballroom banquet with a band for dancing, an extravagant plated served feast with the serving staff parade with flaming Baked Alaska dessert. Howard Call noted that in the late 1970s at the Sheraton Ballroom, "the flamboyant tuxedo clad head waiter during the flaming Baked Alaska parade dropped the huge platter leading the parade. He picked himself up, and we never saw the head waiter again". As time has progressed the fair boards like to go out to dinner as Columbus offers many fine dining locations and these evening banquets have faded away.

Today, the Ohio Fair Managers is the largest stated association of fairs conventions representing the 95 Agricultural ORC organized fairs in Ohio, including the Ohio State Fair, and more than 240 associate service members from allied fields will hold the 100th Annual Convention January 2-5, 2025, in Columbus, Ohio. Throughout the years, the OFMA has remained true to its purpose of promoting and encouraging the development and improvement of agricultural fairs, shows, and expositions. The OFMA is actively engaged and supports the International Association of Fairs and Expositions (IAFE) as well as the Federation of State and Provincial Association of Fairs.

The Organization Objectives are: 1. To represent and promote the general welfare of the County, Independent and State Fairs of the State of Ohio. 2. Encourage closer cooperation among Fairs of Ohio. 3. To promote Agriculture and its related fields to our fairs and their customers. 4. To provide for our annual meeting or convention of all Fairs, associated groups and businesses at least once a year. 5. To promote cooperation among all agricultural related educational and commodity organizations. 6. Follow the Established 990 Practice of the OFMA Board.

Ohio Fair Managers Association Officers Through The Years

The OFMA officers are a very integral part of the OFMA with their leadership and guidance. The point should be made that individual County and Independent fairs have groomed all these officers.

The first known president of the OFMA was the Honorable Myers Cooper in 1937. The fairs at that time had similar problems and the officers faced just as difficult decisions as they do presently. The officers of those early associations did not have the modern communication system that we have today. As a result, there were more district meetings to convey fair dates, new activities to be considered, and problems to be shared and solved.

During the early years of the OFMA, the emphasis was largely on education and agriculture. Harness racing was coming into its own. The officers at that time were very wise in guiding the OFMA and keeping it headed in the right direction to be followed today.

Then came World War II which put a hardship on all fairs and the officers and directors of the OFMA. The OFMA helped the local fairs to entertain the people and keep their spirits high. It was a difficult time in which community and family closeness was important. It was also an opportunity for the people to hear about and see the new ideas that were coming forth.

After the war there were many different avenues for the fairs to take. The OFMA officers worked together with the Showmen of Ohio and the Harness Horsemen to bring better fairs to each county.

In the late fifties, the OFMA officers worked with the Ohio Harness Horsemen to pass "The Ohio Fair Fund" bill in the Ohio legislature. This bill has been opened and changed many times over the years.

The sixties were years of great strides to keep up with the fast changing times and make the fairs better. There was a change in philosophy among the officers and directors that incorporated business, farming, and harness racing backgrounds. This ultimately helped to upgrade the racing programs at the Ohio fairs and also increased the financial aspects.

The seventies were trying times for the OFMA officers and directors. There was a movement afoot to change the Ohio Fair Fund and take some assistance away from the fairs. In the time frame of the sixties and seventies, the OFMA officers and directors were having a two-day convention in the spring. At the regional meetings, they would break up into different groups for 45 minutes of discussion on various topics. In the eighties the OFMA officers were confronted with changing laws and new ride inspections under the auspices of the Ohio Department of Agriculture. A new unified accounting system was introduced throughout the state. There was a trend toward larger entertainment and the emphasis on agriculture seemed to slip away a little each year. During these years, the officers worked very closely with the Greater Ohio Showmen's organization.

The nineties brought a cause for the officers to change the constitution in order to better run the business of the OFMA. This was also the time to help guide the fairs into correcting the cheating that was going on in the livestock departments.

In the late eighties up through the present, the OFMA has put together a tour each year to other states and their fine fairs along with many interesting side trips.

Very fine and capable officers have served the organization including those who are serving today. They have given much of their time and effort to help all fairs down through the years. This is a very brief history of the officers collectively since a brief history of the officers over the years is not available at this time. A listing of the known presidents follows on next page. One thing to be said - they are all a part of the great state of OHIO and OHIO's FAIRS!

Submitted by Fred Arnold,
Past President OFMA.

Note: Fred was the President of the OFMA 1984-1985 and was instrumental in the Ohio Fairs Fund Program.

Durant Amusements celebrates 57 years

Proudly Showcasing the 3 Abreast Merry Go Round

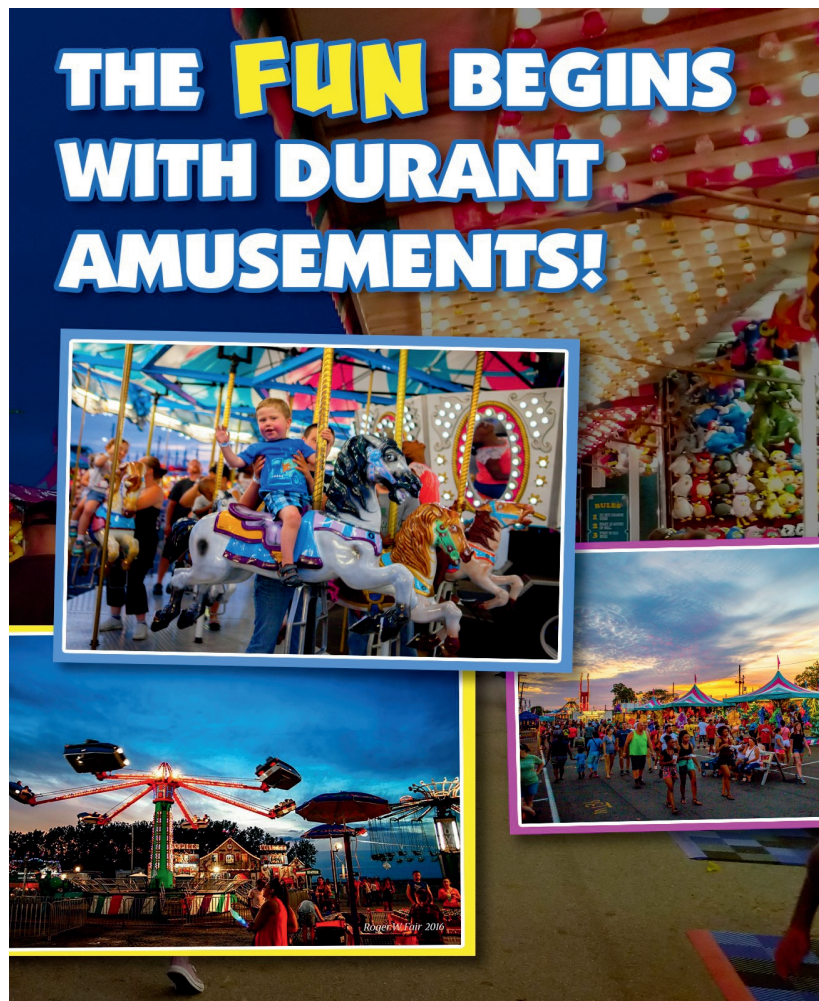

In 1966, The Prowant Family purchased their 1st two carnival rides, setting the stage for an outdoor amusement company that would go on for decades.

This year is Durant Enterprises 59th year in business. On Durant Amusements 50th Anniversary in 2016, the Prowants made the decision to step away from the Amusement Ride business, and since J.R. and Denise Woods had worked with and provided all the games and a Fun-house to Durant for over 20 years, it seemed fitting for them to purchase the company.

J.R. is 4th generation in the carnival business. His family's business, Woods Family Concessions, has been providing games and concessions in Ohio since 1927.

J.R. and Denise have worked hard to keep things updated, painted, and have replaced and upgraded several rides.

Durant now owns 26 rides, and they work 11 county fairs and 10 festivals in Ohio.

Kissel Amusement Company

Supplying the SWING RIDE

Even though, Kissel Amusement Company is a newer company to the amusement industry, the Kissel Family still has a rich history that dates back to 1932. It started in Cincinnati, Ohio when Ralph and Russell Kissel started a pony ride business, and traveled from Greensburg, Indiana every Tuesday to attend horse sales. There, is when they became good acquaintances with the Cincinnati Zoo. Both, started to buy, and transport horses/ponies for the zoo's exhibit's and pony rides. After a few years, the Cincinnati Zoo decided to move in another direction from the ponies and offered Ralph and Russell if they would like to buy the pony rides, which they did. They started to do birthday parties, small festivals around the Cincinnati area. As the years went on they kept expanding the business, eventually adding 2 rides and crane game.

In 1947, Ralph and Russell decided to buy some land in Colerain Township (Cincinnati) and start the next chapter of their goals. Kissel Bros. Amusement Park opened up featuring a animal petting zoo, picnic area, 3 refreshment stands, Dance pavilion, and of course a midway with a vast assortment of rides and games. As they years went on they were thriving in success as being one of the first amusement parks in Cincinnati.

In 1970, Kings Island was brought to life in Cincinnati. Which made it hard to compete with because they had a lot more land, which meant more room for bigger rides, and more activities. The success of Kissel Bros. Amusement Park was dropping rapidly. So, they had to start coming up with new plans to prevent going out of business. The new plans lead them back to the traveling part of the industry, but this time with only amusement rides, food stands, and games.

Today, Kissel Amusement Company is still owned by owned and operated by Randy and Linda Kissel, following their children and wives Kyle (Vicky), Drew (Nichole), and Nick (Megan). Together they grew the company into Ohio leading amusement ride provider. Owning 30+ rides, 20+ food and games, 2 separate units supplying rides to over 35 County Fairs, Festivals, and other special events throughout Ohio.
